Have you seen any poisonous spiders? I've found seven Black Widows in recent weeks. There are lots of spiders out this fall; so watch out where you put your hands.

For control either Vapona or Pyrethrins will give a quick knockdown. Malathion also does a good job and would probably last longer.

There's still time to use a "pour on" treatment for grubs and lice. Remember, don't use these materials later than November 1. There are a half dozen good materials on the market. The important thing is to get the cow herd and yearlings treated now.

Livestock owners just aren't making maximum use of the forage testing program.

There's no reason for feeding animals "blindly" again this year when you can fairly accurately determine the protein and energy needs.

* * *

1100 dairymen in Virginia had 2386 forage samples analyzed last year.

Balancing for crude fiber and crude protein, they were able to increase production and value over feed cost in spite of lower quality forages and higher priced concentrates.

Dairymen will profit if they continue to push for higher quality forages and then, regardless of quality, determine through a forage test the proper supplement needed for their quality forage.

The Dairy Herd Improvement Program continues to provide benchmark information for evaluating production, feeding and management results of the Virginia dairy industry. The 930 participating dairymen are the primary beneficiaries of production record programs, using the results to make timely adjustments in feeding and management and to identify superior animals for selective breeding programs.

With new technology researchers have been able to bring cattle into full milk production in a period of three weeks without a concurrent pregnancy.

Federal Food and Drug has not granted approval of this technique.

Currently, an average heifer starts production at 30 months of age and reinitiatess a lactation every 14 months. With the new proceedure a heifer could be brought into production before 24 months of age and should start a new lactation every 12-13 months.

Cigarette consumption per person 18 and older this year is estimated about 1 percent above 1971 when 202 packs were smoked. We'll use about two more packs per person this year. That's 4,080 cigarettes. A recent high was 4,345 cigarettes in 1963.

But pounds of tobacco continue to go down. In 1963 it was 9.70 pounds per person over 18; now it's only 7.73 pounds. During the past 10 years there's been an orderly shift in less tobacco and more substitutes.

Some recently introduced tobacco products are selling for considerably less than their competition, but the label clearly states that both tobacco and non-tobacco products are used in the manufacture.

Homemaker Hints

By Rebecca M. Johnson
Extension Agent

Those of you who missed the Lynchburg Regional Health forum held October 11 at Virginia Baptist Hospital, really missed a treat. Dr. John S. Davis of U. Va. told enlightening facts about arthritis. Louise Wiedmer of Richmond spoke on "Foods For Fitness", with special emphasis on the diet of aging. Keep the program in mind for next year.

Mrs. T. C. Harvey, Sr. County Chairman of Appomattox Extension Homemakers, is looking for a replacement. Her term expires this year and she wants some names for the nominating committee to choose from. Please give her the names of those you think would make a good County Chairman for the next two years. Her number is 352-7868.

If you're crazy about cheese sandwiches but want some variety, try one of the following:

-Spread mustard on the bread, then add cheese and grill.

-Spread heated asparagus over open-faced grilled cheese sandwiches and top with sour cream.

-Add slices of pineapple to a cheese sandwich before grilling

-Pour Welsh Rabbit or melted cheese over a club sandwich and eat with a knife and fork.

-Put sliced cucumbers with cottage cheese on pumpernickel bread.

Farm Bureau is the proper vehicle to take our concern to the people," she said.

"We have a great concern about the high cost of medical care," she said, "and feel that these are issues vital to all citizens of Virginia."

The committee drew up its recommendations after hearing from health care organizations, doctors, hospital organizations, and medical school representatives.

Farm Bureau has a history of concern for improvement of rural health care. Five years ago it actively supported legislation to obtain departments of family practice at Medical College of Virginia and the University of Virginia.

The General Assembly authorized establishment of departments in both schools. There are now 47 resident doctors in family practice training at MCV and seven at the University of Virginia.

In a day long meeting the committee heard testimony from expert witnesses in the field of health care.

Representatives of Blue Cross plans in Richmond and Roanoke cited figures which ranks Virginia first in the nation with the number of hospital beds per 1,000 population. The committee was also told Virginia had the largest number of investor owned hospitals per 1,000 persons in the U. S.

It was pointed out that unnecessary hospital building creates understaffing and empty beds, and these factors along increase cost to patients.

Early this year the General Assembly failed to pass S.B. 108 which would require hospitals and nursing homes to obtain a certification of need prior to licensing for additions, new facilities or substantial alternations. It passed the Senate, but was stalled in the House General Laws Committee. The Farm Bureau committee would seek to resubmit this bill.

Farm Bureau Calls For Regulation In Hospital Rates

The Virginia Farm Bureau Rural Health Advisory Committee has called for the State Corporation Commission to regulate hospital room rates to combat the rising cost of health care.

It also recommended that a certification of need be established by the state to control the overbuilding of hospital facilities in Virginia.

These recommendations were made in the face of what was termed as "skyrocketing cost of medical care, and mushrooming of hospitals in certain areas."

The committee's recommendations will be offered to the Farm Bureau Federation for consideration and support.

Another recommendation called for the full support of a program to provide additional training to registered nurses to have them certified as primary assistants to physicians.

Other recommendations called for promotion of career opportunities in health and medicine; sponsorship by Farm Bureau of a student to medical school; assistance to rural communities to attract family physicians; and other projects to reduce medical costs.

"As consumers in the medical field we have a right and a duty to make ourselves heard," said Mrs. Mary Frances Houff of Augusta County, who is committee chairman.

"The rural citizen needs to be heard, and we feel that

Taters Grow Big

Nathan M. Snell, pictured above, of Evergreen raised the five big potatoes he is holding. They were grown on the property of Mr. Glenn Martin of Route 1, Appomattox.

These five kenny-back type of potatoes weigh 6 pounds and Mr. Snell says they are enough for any one man's family.

ROCKS

Oct. 16 Farmers have started sowing wheat and picking corn.

The Quartet furnished special music for the Lions Meeting at Appomattox on Thursday night.

Flora Dickerson spent Wednesday with Mrs. Samuel Dickerson and Mrs. Roy Keys.

The new steeple was erected on Rocks Church Tuesday morning. A number were there to see it put up. This improved the looks of the church very much.

Mrs. Hunter Martin, Sr. received word last week of the arrival of another great grandaughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martin, Jr. of Lufkin Texas on October 9.

A number went to Hollywood Thursday night for the Appomattox Association that met there. The Elder and McIntosh Quartet furnished special music.

Several from Rocks attended the Association at Evergreen church on Friday.

Sympathy is extended the Clarence Simmons family. He was buried on Friday morning.

A stork shower was given Mrs. Aulden Roach at the home of her sister, Mrs. Glen Morris on Friday night.

Mrs. Robert Roach, Mrs. Dave Childress and Mrs. W. R. Moore attended the stork shower for Mrs. Newton Tolley at Piney Ridge Church on Saturday night.

A house warming was given Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Baldwin Saturday night at their new home.

Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Elder and girls went to Newport News Saturday for the day.

Cleaner Air Week To Be Observed

The 24th Cleaner Air Week will be held on October 15 - 21 throughout the nation. Established in 1949 by the Air Pollution Control Association (APCA), this year the annual event will be co-sponsored by the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association (NTRDA).

State and local TB-RD associations in Virginia will observe the week in their localities. The Central Virginia Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association will conduct educational activities in the Central Virginia area.

According to Miss Meade Boswell, Chairman of the Association's Air Conservation Committee, "Cleaner Air Week has a three-fold purpose. First," she went on, "to assess air pollution problems, especially at the community level, and second, the progress being made toward solutions."

"Next, we should publicize the situation," she said, "and encourage support of necessary corrective measures by all individuals and interests, both public and private."

President Richard M. Nixon has commended the two organizations on their joint sponsorship of Cleaner Air Week. In his statement to the public he said, "In the past, Cleaner Air Week has been sponsored by the Air Pollution Control Association, a professional organization of air pollution control experts, largely from government and industry. It is especially significant that, for the first time, they are joined by the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association with its many dedicated professional members and thousands of men and women concerned with the health of their families and neighbors."

It's been said that small business is the backbone of our country.

Unfortunately, the back of many small business firms is often broken by sky-high overhead. We have low-cost but efficient telephone systems for small business firms that can help them keep overhead down. Our small systems permit calls out and calls inside to other phones. These small systems also permit you to put an incoming call on hold—and do so without the expense of more elaborate systems. And you can even order your small systems with a paging service. Best of all, no capital investment is required on your part. Call our business office and get complete information. Our small business systems are a big value!
